2022 FoodS.U.R.E. Poster Competition

The FoodS.U.R.E. team is excited to announce our first annual poster competition. The undergraduate poster competition will be held in the Parker Food Science and Technology Building lobby on March 24, 2022 from 12:00-5:00 PM.

Registration is now open and will close on March 21, 2022, at 5:00 PM.

Eligibility
Students enrolled in the Food Science and Technology department are eligible to participate. Students who are participating in Food Science and Technology research who are not enrolled in the department are also eligible to participate. Students must be engaged in a research project with a faculty mentor.

Categories
There will be two categories for poster presentations, proposal and ongoing or completed research.

Proposal: Research that has not begun. Proposal posters should focus on design, methods, and significance of proposed research.
Ongoing or Completed: Research has progressed and includes at least some results. Posters should focus on results, conclusions, and significance.

Abstract
A 300-word (maximum) typed abstract should be submitted along with the registration by March 21 at 5:00 PM. Abstracts will be posted online and available to view during the competition.

Poster (dimension/size reference?)

Proposal: Proposal posters should include the following sections: Introduction, Objectives/Hypothesis, Methods, Predicted Results, Significance, Acknowledgements (If applicable), and References

Ongoing or Completed: Posters should include the following sections: Introduction, Objectives/Hypothesis, Methods, Results, Conclusions, Acknowledgements (If applicable), and References
Judging
Participants will be scored on their poster and a 3- to 5-minute presentation in accordance with the rubric. Please expect 1-2 additional minutes of questions from judges. Judges will be graduate students and post-doctoral scholars from the department of Food Science and Technology. Students will not be scored by judges from their own lab.

Participant Expectations
All participants are expected to register and submit an abstract describing their research by March 22 at 5:00 PM. Participants will set up their posters in the event space no later than 12:00 PM on March 24, 2022. Each participant will be assigned a 30-minute time slot based on their availability where they should be by their posters. During the assigned time, judging will take place.

Dress Code
The dress is casual. FoodSURE t-shirt is encouraged.

Awards
For each category:
